

Rightsholders Represented

Irish rightsholders

The Irish Copyright Licensing Agency represents authors, visual creators and publishers.

With respect to Irish publishers, each publisher signs a mandate allowing ICLA to license for copying on its behalf. Currently ICLA has mandates from over 400 Irish publishers.

With regard to Irish authors, The Irish Writers' Union and the Society of Irish Playwrights have mandated ICLA to act behalf of their members. These are the two main bodies in Ireland, which represent Irish authors. We also receive individual mandates from authors.

Foreign rightsholders

ICLA is a member of the International Federation of Reprographic Rights Organisation (IFRRO). Through this organisation, we sign reciprocal agreements with our sister organisations in other countries whereby our licence includes books and journals published in those countries.
